

Smart phones and their impact on enhancing the skills of information culture in the community of Beni Suef University: a field study.

Prepared by / Shaimaa Safwat Saber

Demonstrator, Department of Information

Science

Faculty of Arts - Beni Suef University

supervision

Prof. Suheir Abdel Basset Eid

Professor of Libraries and Information and Vice Dean of the Faculty of Arts

For students and students at Beni Suef University

Dr. / Rehab Fayez Ahmed

Professor of Library and Information Assistant and Director

Public Relations at Beni Suef University

:Abstract

The study aimed to identify the effect of smart phones on the skills of information culture in the community of Beni Suef University, based on the achievement of several objectives is to provide a theoretical framework analyzes the concepts associated with smart phones and information culture, and study the trends of the University of Beni Suef towards the use of smart phones, In enhancing the skills of information culture in the community of Beni Suef University and comparing the impact of smart phones in enhancing the skills of information culture in both undergraduate students, researchers and faculty members at Beni Suef University, Difficulties facing the University of Beni Suef community in the use of smart phones, in addition to developing solutions, perceptions and proposals that help develop IT literacy skills of Beni Suef University community from the perspective of the respondents themselves through the use of .smart phones